BLAINE IS DYING.

Concealment of His Serious Illness No Longer Possible.

The End of a Remarkable Career Believed To Be Approaching.

Washington, Dec. 15.—Two of the most distinguished men in the country are slowly dying in Washington to-night, and it is not probable that they will live to see the first day of the new year. One is James G.
Blaine and the other Justice Lamar. Inquiry at Mr.
Blaine's residence this evening elicits simply the response that "Mr. Blaine's condition is about the same." From another source it is learned that his condition is less favorable than it was this morning. Although there is no danger, apparently, of an immediate fatal termination of his illness, there is no doubt that Mr. Blaine is a very sick man, and his present condition excites the gravest fears. It is, in fact, so serious that there is said to be only a possibility of his recovering sufficiently to admit of his removal to a milder climate.

A Princeton Saloon-Keeper Finds a Way to Do Business Without a Business.

Princeton, Ky., Dec. 16.— A case was decided in the Lyon Circuit Court yesterday that is so unusual in its character that will likely bring about a large amount of litigation in this section of Kentucky. J.

R. Griffith, a saloon-keeper, of Eddyville, made application several months ago for a renewal of his license to retail intoxicating liquors. The County Judge refused on the ground that complaint had been made of Griffith's running a disorderly house. Griffith got up a petition and lodged this, with the license money, with the County Clerk and continued his business. He was indicted for selling whisky without license and heavily fined.

He took an appeal to the Appellate Court. The decision was reversed and the case sent back to the Circuit Court. Circuit Judge Grace, in his decision yesterday, ordered the money returned to Griffith and the indictments dismissed.

TO TOUCH THE BUTTON.

M. Cleveland Will Be Asked to Make a Speech, and Start the Wheel at the Great Fair.

Chicago, Dec. 14.—Grover Cleveland will be asked to make a speech on May 1, 1893, at the Exposition. At the close of the speech, if he accepts the invitation, Mr. Cleveland will touch an electric button, starting the 14,000 horse power plant in Machinery Hall which is to run all the whirring wheels of the fair.

This was decided by the Committee on Ceremonies to-day.
The other exercises will consist of the reading of a poem by Dr. Olive Wendell Holmes and a prayer. It is intended to have the ceremonies of the briefest character. The Executive Committee of the World's Fair expressed a desire to-day to do away with all ceremonies at the May opening but the plan outlined by the Ceremonies Committee will probably be followed.

Recently while in mid-ocean one of the great ocean steamers was overtaken by a storm, her machinery was disabled, and water found its way into the vessel. There appeared to be no hope for the vessel and the seven hundred people aboard.
The great evangelist Moody was aboard he affirms that nothing short of the direct interposition of Providence in answer to prayers saved the lives of the whole ship's company. "Did you ever see seven hundred men and women pray?" said he this afternoon.

"There never was a more earnest prayer to God than that of those seven hundred souls on evening when we met in the saloon to implore God's help

THE NEW COURT.

Judge Bennett Will Preside Over the Reorganization, but the adjournment of the Court of Appeals this morning carries with it more significance than ordinary adjournment of the highest State tribunal for many reasons. The court has lately been brought into prominence more than ordinary by the World's Fair decision, and just ahead lie the volumes of work that will be brought before it in the adjustment of the laws to the new constitution.

Every law in the statute book that has not yet been will have to be repassed by the Legislature in conformity to the new constitution and this will give rise to a great deal of litigation.
The court, as it were, begins a new era in its history.

RED FRONT.

ISSUED WEEKLY.

R. C. WALKER, Publisher.

The swearing off period is approaching.

The Legislature is resting from its arduous labors.

Congress has adjourned until after the holidays.

Confidence men robbed a Bourbon county farmer of $2,000.

Monday evening a banquet was given Vice-President elect Stevenson at Anniston, Ala.

The Kentucky distillers have decided to list whisky for taxation at per barrel.

We continue to hope that the State Senate, like the rest of the country, will be Democratic.

An eastern paper publishes the story that Carlisle has been offered the Treasury portfolio and he declined to accept it.

If the Legislature fails to make an appropriation for a Kentucky exhibit at the World's Fair, and it will fail to do its duty some more.

Senator Gibson of Louisiana, died at Hot Springs Thursday. His remains were brought to Lexington for burial. He was born a Kentuckian.

Well, if Carlisle goes into the Cabinet, and Stone gets the Senatorial plum, then John Hendrick will go to Congress, or we will know the reason why.

Vice-President elect Stevenson is making a little hank-shaking tour in the South. He is as near to the heart of the people in his sphere as Grover Cleveland is in his more honored office.

The International Money Conference at Brussels, adjourned Saturday, it will reconvene May 18, should the various governments so agree. There appears to be little hope of any good being accomplished.

It is estimated that the increase in distilled spirits from one gallon will add to the revenue.

Congressman Camp has introduced a bill which provides that Federal office holders shall not draw pensions while they are drawing salaries from the Government. This is a most important consideration.

by counties. The vote of Bidwell, the Prohibition candidate for President, shows very plainly that the temperance people do not believe in raising their good, moral cause with their practical business politics. They have the good sense to occupy the position that in business affairs, and what is politics, but business— we must mingle and think as business men, irrespective of the matter as to who takes a drink and who don't. Take the counties of the First district for instance. Mayfield, the capital of Graves, is a strong prohibition town, no saloons are tolerated, yet in the big county of Graves, Bidwell got only fifty-six votes. Caldwell county has been in prohibition "dyed in the wool," a majority of her people are unquestionably opposed to the whisky traffic, yet of the 2200 votes cast Bidwell has only fifty eight for his share.

Marion the county seat of Crittenden, is a prohibition town, and the precinct alone has over 800 votes, yet in the entire county, only forty-nine saw fit to vote for Bidwell. The other counties of the district, and the State as for that, show about the same conditions. The people will not mix the things of Caesar with the things of God. We owe a duty to each, and each debt should be paid; but neither receipts for the other; the two are not united nor can they be formed into a co-partnership without doing an injustice to either the one or the other.

A great effort is being made to have the World's Fair open on Sunday. A Chicago court will be asked to grant an injunction restraining the directors from closing the gates on Sunday, on the grounds that the park is public property that can not be closed. The question appears to shape itself about this way: Shall we remain true to the faith which guided and cherished those who fought for our independence, or shall we give way to the spirit of the age which says we are wiser than they?

With the use of liquor prohibited on election days, and a fair prospect of an increase in the price of a drink because of an increase of taxes on whiskey, it appears that the dealers have other enemies besides our prohibition friends.

Congressman Camp has introduced a bill which provides that Federal office holders shall not draw pensions while they are drawing salaries from the Government. This is a most important consideration.

Q. Mills notifies his constituents, that he will take no hand in helping them get offices. If Loger's constituents had treated him the same way, there would be no necessity for his announcement.

New York World: By the last census the total wealth of the United States is $62,610,000,000 and the total capital invested in manufacturing $2,900,735,894, or but 5 per cent of the whole. After thirty years of legislating for the 5 it is time to give the 95 a chance.

Lyon County and Eddyville.

The Tale of Two Cities gives some historical information concerning Eddyville and Lyon county. We clip the following from its columns: Lyon is the smallest on the tier of counties of Western Kentucky bordering on, and contiguous to, the Cumberland and Tennessee rivers; but it is rich in its resources of fertile soil, varied timber productions and mineral deposits; and offers inducements to those who have money to invest such as in some respects are not equalled by any of her sister counties.

The county was erected in 1854, by act of the Legislature, from a portion of Caldwell county, and was named in honor of Col. Crittenden Lyon, one of the earliest settlers of the territory, and the grandfather of our fellow townsman, Gen. H. B. Lyon.

Its area is about one hundred and thirty thousand acres, somewhat more than half of which consists of improved and tillable lands; and the remainder of virgin forest and coal-bearing lands. The population of the county is now about eight thousand, and its people are above the average in intelligence and progressive spirit.

Eddyville, the county seat of Lyon county, takes its name from its location nearly midway between two of the largest eddies (or whirlpools) in the Cumberland river, known as "Big Eddy" and "Little Eddy."

The town was first located in 1799, by Col Mathew Lyon, then a citizen of Vermont, and a representative in Congress from that state, who brought out from the Green Mountain State a colony of hardy pioneers, and settled them here on the classic banks of the blue Suwanee, to found a town and to make a history. After making a plot for a town, in October of that year, on the 2nd day of the month, a public meeting was called and the town organized by the election of a board of trustees, who accepted the plot and located the public building. In those early days of Kentucky's history, as in these, good drinking water was one of the most important considerations.

in the location of a plantation or settlement and large springs here, being not more than two hundred yards apart, and pouring into the Cumberland river, their large streams of pure and cold water, first attracted the attention of Col. Lyon and his friends, and caused them to pitch their tents here, among the forest growth and ancient hills that stood around them. Col. Lyon soon returned to Vermont and to his seat of Congress, to take conspicuous part in the stirring events that created the politics of the then young republic.

The town he had thus founded grew apace, and was soon made the county seat of Caldwell county, then comprising all that territory now known as Lyon county. And soon after his imprisonment and heavy fine under the "alien and sedition laws" and early subsequent release, Col. Lyon returned to Eddyville to take up his permanent residence here, where he immediately established several thriving manufacturing industries, such as a ship yard, nail factory and button factory, all of which thrived and flourished in their day. The first permanent residence built in the town was the dwelling house built for Col. Lyon, and now occupied by Mr. George E. Crumbaugh and it was in the same mansion that Aaron Burr and his son resided in 1804, after his dastardly order of the gentry Hamilton. He unfolded to Col. Lyon his frantic plot of treason, by which he pleased his recently defeated political aspirations, he hoped to find an extensive Southern empire with himself as an absolute head. Here, also, in later years, as to an ancient city of refuge, fled another whetnot criminal, Edward O. Judson, better known to the world as "Ned Bundin," the famous writer of more blood-and-thunder novels than any other American before or since his time.

As it is impractical for all to call personally and learn the condition of their subscription account, we will about Jan 1, mail each a statement, showing just how the matter stands, and trust that all will be able to respond, and enable us to make some improvements in the paper. Wishing you a merry Christmas and a happy New Year, we are,
